Illinois State University’s logo symbolizes our tradition and values. Our name, university seal, and colors come together to form our logo, which makes a visual impression and brands our institution.

Our logo strengthens our communications and allows us to deliver a consistent message. The use of a single logo communicates unity. When we present a single look, our audience is able to easily recognize Illinois State University.

Our logo uses the University seal and name in a horizontal format, which allows for flexibility with a wide variety of media. Also, horizontal logos are more readable, providing an instant impression.

On the following pages, you will see examples of how the logo may be used, what colors are available, and ways to identify your unit using the logo. The University seal is the cornerstone of our visual identity. By using it along with your unit name, you help raise the profile of your school or area, especially to external audiences.

In support of the mission and values of the University, we need to create a consistent visual identity for Illinois’ first public university, Illinois State University.
Color is one of the most important elements of the Illinois State University identity system. Red and white are the official colors for all institutional logos.

Black
In addition to the official school colors shown above, black—in small amounts—provides accent and definition to the University’s logos.

Gray serves as an optional, neutral tone to complement Illinois State’s primary red color and secondary black. Works best in small doses, such as a lower-level subhead on white background.

“Redbird yellow” is used for the bird’s beak and feet.

Logo

The University logo consists of three parts: the University seal, the University logotype, and the subscript. Proportions, spacing, and size relationships between logo elements have been carefully established. Use original logo files as is without alteration. When printing the logo on promotional products, a circle-R/registered trademark ® is used.

Seal  The seal is printed in red when possible. An exception is when the production method uses only one color, such as a black-only newspaper ad.

Logotype  The University logotype is always printed in black or white, whichever provides the most contrast against the background color. An exception is when the production method makes this impractical, such as a logo foil-stamped in silver on a folder.

Subscript  The subscript is printed in red when that color contrasts sufficiently against the background. It can be changed to black or white if necessary.

The University seal always sits on a circle of white. The ring around the seal is evident when the logo is printed on a shaded background.

The minimum size for the University logo is 2” wide.

The seal should always appear as a positive and not as a reverse. Tip: The pages of the book in the center of the seal should always be the lighter color. An alternate version of the seal is available when printing with white ink, such as an imprint on a dark product.
Logo color variations

Color variations of the logo are available for use on various backgrounds and for accommodating various methods of production. Proper contrast and legibility should always be the main consideration.

When using the logo in black and white, use the variation that provides the best contrast against the background shade. Do not add effects to the logo—such as drop shadow or outer glow—to help readability with interfering background elements. Instead, adjust the background itself.

Avoid “grays” in logo—this happens when using color logo for black and white reproductions. A pure black version of the logo is available for this situation.

The logo may be printed in all red on a white background if black is unavailable, for example, with a product imprint.
The logo may be used on a variety of colored backgrounds. The colors of the individual elements can change to provide optimum contrast. Keep the following standards in mind:

• The seal should always be in red, when red is available, or all black. The seal is always represented in one solid color.
• The University logotype must be in black or white.
• The subscript may be black or white only if red provides insufficient contrast.

Color variations of the University logo are available by request.
Logo integrity

All Illinois State University logos should be used as supplied from University Marketing and Communications, and not altered in any way. Proportions, spacing, and size relationships have been carefully established for campus-wide consistency. Examples below illustrate some commonly seen “mistakes,” which can occur from import errors, taking liberties with special effects, using inappropriate color combinations, and/or changing the logo file itself. Surrounding fields are used to simulate background color.

- Always scale proportionally to avoid any stretching or squishing.
- Always treat logo as complete unit; never alter individual components.
- Maintain outer white ring around seal. It serves to separate it from all background imagery.
- Never surround logo with outer shape or border.
- Use logo color variation that provides sufficient contrast with its background for best readability.
- Always use BW version of logo when end product will be BW (or 1-color), to avoid tinted portions of logo.

- Do not add any special effects, including drop shadows.
- Never add any elements to the logo.
- Use logo color variation that provides sufficient contrast with its background for best readability.
- Always use logo at perfect horizontal, without any tilt or rotation.
- Use only approved color break options as listed on page 5; never recolor elements of the logo.
- Always use full logo; never crop out portions. See page 9 for rules on using seal as “watermark.”

- Do not distort logo in any way, including shearing or perspective effects.
- Do not add any special effects, including outer glow or surrounding shadow.
- Use logo color variation that provides sufficient contrast with its background for best readability.
- Always use logo at perfect horizontal, without any tilt or rotation.
- Use only approved color break options as listed on page 5; never recolor elements of the logo.

- Do not use on competitive or busy background that detracts from the logo's readability.
Create Your Legacy

The standard colors for the Create Your Legacy (CYL) wordmark are variations of red, black, and white. The mark is intended to promote the University, but only with permission from University Marketing and Communications (UMC) at Identity@IllinoisState.edu, or (309) 438-8404. Color breaks depend on the background and reproduction colors available. Examples below illustrate these variations. Surrounding fields are used to simulate background color.

Primary marks

- Primary mark in all-white for use on red (or dark) background
- Primary mark in black-red for use on white (or light) background

Alternate marks

- An all-black version is also available. A horizontal arrangement is available for special circumstances in various color variations.

Unit variations of the Create Your Legacy mark

The primary CYL mark can incorporate specific taglines for colleges and majors. Contact UMC to make a request for a unit variation, or for questions and support. Examples of unit variations are shown below.

Additional information

CYL marks are primarily available in a rasterized (pixel-based) format that reveal semi-transparent “brush strokes” in “Legacy,” but some limitations in reproduction methods exist. The CMYK color builds using traditional full-color inks are used for the rasterized version. The marks are also available in vector (path-based) format, and can be limited to spot (Pantone) colors, in which case PMS 186 is used for the red.

For questions, or further reference of brand guidelines for usage of the CYL mark, contact UMC.

Always use solid black version of CYL when the end result will be BW (or 1-color) to avoid tinted portions of the mark.

When the CYL mark appears on a promotional product, it requires a™ notice.
Logo clear space, size

Maintain a minimum distance between any part of the logo and other elements appearing with it or the edge of the page. Minimum space is determined by the letter S in “State.”

Minimum size

In print, the University logo should be displayed no smaller than 2” wide. At that size, the seal is 9/16” wide. The overall minimum width for each unit logo varies based on its respective word counts. Therefore, the seal portion on unit logos (when the logo is scaled proportionally as a whole) should be no smaller than 9/16” in diameter. If the unit uses a Redbird head as its primary identifier, then the same 9/16” width applies in determining the overall minimum logo width.

X = the height of the letter S in “State.”
The seal portion of the University logo may be used as a background element (also referred to as a “watermark”) if the guidelines below are followed.

- A complete ISU logo or unit logo must accompany the seal on the same page/surface.
- The seal must be large (readable) and cropped with most of Illinois State visible.
- The seal must sit only on a field of flat color or subtle texture—not on a photo or a pattern.
- Elements may be placed over top of the seal if there is sufficient contrast. However, the number and size of elements should be kept to a minimum so the seal does not become fragmented.
- At least 50 percent of the seal is shown between cropping and obstructions.
- The seal is used only once per page/surface—not creating a repeating pattern, nor used as a bullet element in an itemized list.

Stationery, cards, nametags

Standard university stationery using the University logo is available at Printing Services. Only the main ISU logo is used on letterhead, envelopes, and business cards. No other letterhead, envelope, or business card designs may be used for any university-related business or communication unless approved by University Marketing and Communications.

Also available from Printing Services is a standard ISU nametag. A white or silver background may be selected.

A series of standard note cards and standard individualized memo pads can be customized for departments.
Logo usage

While it is best to position the University logo over a plain background, it may be placed over an uncluttered background that provides sufficient contrast.

The University logo can serve as a signature instead of a headline.
Unit logos

Unit logos that tie to the University logo are available through University Marketing and Communications. Color variations as explained on pages 4–5 are available. University unit logos that vary from these designs are not permitted, with the exception of logos for student groups.

All guidelines outlined for the University logo hold true for unit logos, except for the minimum size restriction (due to word count variables). The University logo should be displayed no smaller than 2" wide. At that size the seal is 9/16" wide. Therefore, the seal portion (or Redbird) on unit logos should be no smaller than 9/16" wide—as illustrated immediately below.

Unit logos that include the seal are preferred over the logos at the lower left. However, when situations arise where the seal will not reproduce well, it should be removed.

Unit logos, anniversary

Anniversary logos for individual units are available by request for landmark years. These logos are intended for promotional purposes including posters, invites, brochures, digital display screens, and product handouts. Redbird head anniversary versions are available for non-academic units that currently use the Redbird head configuration as their primary identifier.

Anniversary logos may not be used on official university letterhead or business cards—stationery items use only the main ISU logo. More information on anniversary logos can be found at IllinoisState.edu/Identity.

University names and logos on products

University units are encouraged to use products bearing university trademarks to further program objectives and promote the University brand identity. Graphic standards apply for products and promotional items. When printing an ISU logo or Illinois State University on promotional products, a circle-R/registered trademark ® is used. Products bearing university trademarks may only be produced by licensed vendors. More information on university names and logos on products, including a list of licensed vendors, can be found at IllinoisState.edu/Identity.
Other institutional marks

The University logo as it appears at right is the preferred logo. When space or production method prohibits its use, any of the four logotypes below is acceptable.

ILLINOIS STATE UNIVERSITY

The Redbird head and Redbird full-body logos may be used as a graphic element, but should not replace the University logo as the identifying signature mark on university publications/media. Registered student organizations may use the head or body in their logos with restrictions. More information can be found at IllinoisState.edu/Identity. Navigate to “University names and logos standards.”

Standard designs created to identify Redbird Athletics (two of which are shown at right) should only be used on Athletics-related content.

The University visual standards provide for flexibility and variety regarding font choices in publication design. Specific font, type size, spacing, and other characteristics should be chosen for maximum readability.

Examples of safe choices for body copy are serif fonts Adobe Garamond, Goudy, and Times New Roman shown on this page.

The sans serif fonts Myriad Pro and Helvetica, below, are examples of good companions to the serif fonts. These sans serif fonts are suitable for subheads and smaller amounts of body copy.
